

FROM THE PRESIDENT

The National Executive of NELA at its first meeting following the Annual General Meeting in November 1993 recorded the appreciation of NELA for the work done by its outgoing President, John Haydon.

John provided an outstanding effort throughout his year in the Presidency. During the first several months, his office provided the entire administrative support for the organisation and, until this edition, provided the typesetting for the Australian Environmental Law News.

Throughout his Presidency and as an Executive Member before that, John had a strong personal commitment to the organisation as a National organisation, and fought hard to maintain it as such. He also made a significant personal contribution to establishing the Climate Control project, and to the organisation of the Canberra National Conference and the Cairns International Conference. It is hoped that John's initiatives with the Climate Control project and the 1994 Conference can be brought to fruition.
