

* TRUE!? It didn't take long for the residents of a certain Australian city to dub their Police Force's newly acquired helicopter the "pork chopper". As a philosophical member of that force commented: "I wonder what sort of swine thought up that one!" Wait a minute. . . the above is true. Yeah, and pigs might fly!

★ ★ ★

* IT COULD BE TRUE! Traffic Cyclist to motorist he had just pulled over in Northbourne Ave, Canberra: "Your left headlight is out, sir." Motorist: "Yeah, I know about that. See, if I kick the panel underneath it, it comes on again." Policeman: "Well sir, you'd better kick the wind-screen, the rego. is out."

★ ★ ★

FUZZ BUZZ is indebted to a woman senior constable who has agreed to share snippets of her past police experience with you.

FOR STARTERS: Our gal was on duty outside a certain establishment and she was feeling very weary towards the end of a double shift. A lady member of the public approached and haughtily demanded: "Constable, call me a taxi!" Our gal (not meaning to be rude) sweetly complied: "Certainly madam, you're a taxi."

★ ★ ★

I know no method to secure the repeal of bad or obnoxious laws so effective as their stringent execution.

ULYSSES GRANT.

* QUOTES: "Having 'one for the road' could mean having a police car for a chaser."

"Tact is the knack of making a point without making an enemy."

"Divide and rule, a sound motto; Unite and lead, a better one." — Goethe.

★ ★ ★

This month Fuzz Buzz's coup-d'etat is a sneak preview of the new A.F.P. flag. You've read about it, now you can see it.

★ ★ ★

Then there was the time that a member was approached outside Parliament House by a foreign-language speaking-tourist-type person who obviously knew the correct idiom. "Hello cobbler", he said to our member.

EAGLE'S EYE

By P.S. Constable Wayne Eagles

