Movement at the Station

Jan Whitbread from the Director of Public Prosecution's office has been appointed to the NT Womens' Advisory Council.

Jan advises that she would be glad to hear of any issues that members of the profession feel should be taken to the WAC.

Costs Newsletter

50th Anniversary Edition - Free

A copy of the 50th issue of the Law Society of Western Australia's Costs Newsletter has been courtboxed to all firms.

Its editor, David Garnsworthy, has asked that this issue be distributed free of charge to firms in Darwin as they are attempting to increase their circulation.

Details for subscription appear in the newsletter. For those who did not see a copy, the telephone number is 09 221 1077.

NSW Legal Convention

28 October - 3 November

The Law Society of NSW together with the NSW Bar Association invites practitioners to attend the NSW Legal Convention, which will be held in Sydney from 28 October to 3 November.

The full program has now been released and gives members of the profession an opportunity to consider and examine the legal system in detail over the week of activities.

The College of Law will present a wide range of CLEs at the Sydney Hilton, each costing $90 and a number of forums will be staged for the profession at no charge. Included in these are Legal Language - Flavoured or Plain? with Jon Faine and Christopher Balmford, The Courts and Technology in the 21st Century and Reinventing the Court, a forum with emphasis on procedural reforms.

Social activities also play a large role in the Convention. The Law Society's Annual Members' Dinner will be held at the Sheraton on the Park on Thursday and the Law Ball at Paddington Town Hall on Saturday. A Lawyers' Picnic Day has been arranged for the final day of the Convention.

In addition to the above, participants will also be able to take advantage of one stop shopping for office equipment and the latest technology at the two-day, professionally staged Lexpo exhibition.

For further information, telephone the Convention Secretariat on 02 9926 0310.
