

Australian Institute of Quantity Surveyors-Register Available

The Australian Institute of Quantity Surveyors advises that it has recently releases the AIQS Members Register, the purpose of which is to provide users of QS/Construction Economics Services with detailed information on the skills, standards, qualification, experience and services provided by Institute members.

Additionally the Register provides a comprehensive list of the services which the QS profession can provide to the building, construction, engineering and resources industries. It also explains the different level of AIQS membership and professional recognition and clearly identifies those practitioners who are Institute members and hold current Continuing Professional Development (CPD) Certification.

The Institute believes that the Register will be of uses to members of the legal profession and suggests that when seeking QS services, solicitors choose AIQS members who are subject to a strict Code of Professional Conduct and educational requirements.

The register is available free of charge on request to the AIQS National Office on tel: 06 282 2222, fax: 06 285 2427 or email AIQS@compuserve.com.

"But I don't do company law..."

What about family law? Conveyancing?
Business law? Employment law?
Succession planning?

You do company law.

Many small practitioners don't consider company law as something they "do".

And even if they touch on it, it certainly doesn't justify investing in lengthy, in-depth publications which may only get used occasionally, right?

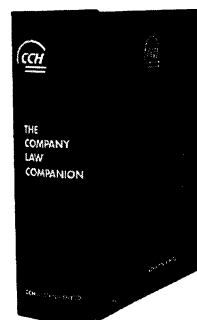

The simple fact however, is that company law impacts on most areas of the law that you do deal with – and while you may not need to know everything about company law, you certainly need a practical working knowledge.

Introducing The Company Law Companion

Now there is a loose-leaf publication designed to cover the major corporations law issues from a legal standpoint.

The Company Law Companion is the perfect desk-top reference, providing an up-to-date "overview" of company law without academic theorising and obscure points of principle.

It's the perfect quick reference you need for all those times you're "not really doing" company law.
