The Law: What is it to you?

Law Week 2005 - 'The Law: What is it to you?' - will run throughout the Northern Territory from Sunday 22 May until Sunday 29 May.

Members of the local legal profession are encouraged to become involved in the many and varied activities which will be run throughout the week, including the cricket challenge, the Tug-of-War competition and the lunches held in Darwin and Alice Springs.

Beyond these social event, Law Week is about taking the law and legal issues to the community. During the month of May, the Law Society will be running a speakers' bureau to allow schools and community groups to book a guest speaker on a legal topic as part of Law Week. This community education will rely heavily on volunteers from the local legal fraternity and all members are encouraged to consider how they can contribute.

Further details about Law Week and the speakers' bureau will be distributed over the coming month. To become involved, or get further information, please contact Zoe at the Law Society on (08) 8981-5104 or via email at publicrelations@lawsocnt.asn.au.
