

Preface and Acknowledgments

In August 2013, the ANU Centre for International and Public Law (CIPL) and the Australian Centre for Environmental Law (ACEL), in association with the Commonwealth Attorney-General's Department, hosted a symposium on the 30th anniversary of the Tasmanian Dam Case. The symposium brought together leading Australian commentators to explore, 30 years on, the various dimensions and implications of the High Court's decision. This book collects many of those conference papers, refined and reworked by their authors as chapters for this collection.<sup>1</sup> Also included in the collection are chapters by Alison Hammond and Sir Anthony Mason.<sup>2</sup>

The editors would like to thank the chapter authors for their perseverance and patience with this project, and the other symposium speakers for their involvement in the conference. Our thanks also go to James Faulkner SC and Janet Power from the Commonwealth Attorney-General's Department for facilitating the hosting of the symposium.

We are very grateful to Jason Monaghan from The Federation Press for his enthusiasm for this project and to Kathryn Fitzhenry for her expert and efficient editing. We thank the ANU Centres for their assistance in the publication of this book and we acknowledge, in particular, the generosity of ACEL Director Professor Tim Bonyhady. Excellent research and editorial support was provided by Matilda Gillis, Ramesh Kaushik and Damian Terbiler.

The editors would also like to make the following personal acknowledgments. Michael thanks James and Heather for inviting him into the project, and Judy, Emily and Elizabeth for their support. Heather thanks her co-editors and the contributors and attendees of the symposium for their enthusiasm and insight. James thanks Marita and Elesa for their enduring patience and welcome distractions.
