

Editorial

Hello and welcome to the first edition of the Journal for '99.

We seem to say this every edition but yet again we have prepared another 'bumper' issue for your reading pleasure. This issue focuses on young lawyers overseas – either working, studying or playing – and provides you with some interesting alternatives if you are considering venturing across the globe. Our feature article can be found on pages 9–13.

We have also included reports from the Chairs of the various Young Lawyers Committees to inform you of the latest developments and events on both a professional and social level. If you are interested in joining any of the Committees mentioned, please do not hesitate to contact Darren Hogenboom on 9607 9385 and don't forget to e-mail him at d-hogebo@liv.asn.au so that you can be added to the Young Lawyers database and receive regular updates on Young Lawyers' events.

This edition aims to satisfy you in all possible ways. To satisfy your intellect, we have included our regular legal update which covers the latest developments in copyright and industrial relations legislation as well as an excellent case note on the recent Garcia case. The latest CLE seminars and workshops are summarised on pages 24 – 26.

To satisfy your stomach, our regular 'foodies' have been out and about and reviewed two popular spots for young lawyers. To satisfy your soul, our very own DJ Simon McGregor, gives you the latest music reviews on page 21.

Of course, no Young Lawyers Journal would be complete without our 'mug shots' on the centre pages and we have not let you down. Turn to pages 14 – 15 to see if you recognise any of the latest new (and not so new) admittees.

We hope there is something for everyone in this journal and if there is any issue you would like covered or even if you would be interested in reviewing a case, CD or restaurant, please contact us through Darren Hogenboom at the Law Institute.

We'll see you in August!
