The GRADUATE SCHOOL OF LIBRARIANSHIP at MONASH UNIVERSITY invites applications for the following courses in 1986.

Ph.D.

Applicants must possess either a Masters degree or a Bachelors Degree of at least HIIA standard, and wish to undertake research leading to a dissertation in any of the school's specialist areas.

SPECIALIST MASTERS DEGREE

Either by course work and minor thesis or by major thesis. Applications are invited from graduate librarians and from people with qualifications, experience or publications in fields related to librarianship, such as information management, library and information systems, archives, publishing and records management.

DIPLOMA IN LIBRARIANSHIP

(Graduate Post-Professional Award)

Advanced course work spread over one year full-time or 2 years part-time. Applicants must be graduate professional librarians.

MASTER OF ARTS (Applications will be considered in November 1985)

(Recognised by the LAA as conferring eligibility for Associateship.)

Applicants must hold by February 1986 at least an Honours Degree (preferably at HI or HIIA level) in Science, Arts, Economics, Law, Engineering or other discipline considered relevant. Requires course work and a minor thesis, and relates the student's academic discipline to librarianship. Normally 2 years full-time, but part-time applicants will be considered.

Among the School's specialisations are: the provision and management of computer-based services; the economics of library and information provision; library services for ethnic minorities; the transmission of texts in the past and future; library and book trade history; computer applications in bibliographic control, including the use of ABN; education for librarianship.

SCHOLARSHIPS

Applications for CPCA (available for the M.A.) close on 30 September 1985.

Applications for CPRA (available for M.Lib. and Ph.D.) close on 31 October 1985.

Applications for Monash Graduate Scholarships (available for M.A., M.Lib. and Ph.D.) close on 31 October, 1985.

Libraries using ACIMAIL

One of the roles of the AACOBS/LAA Joint Committee on Information Technology is to help keep libraries and other information services aware of what is happening in areas such as telecommunications, information processing and information technology.

Electronic mail is one of the fastest growing areas, and a number of services are already in use in libraries. As part of its information service the Committee is publishing this list of ACIMAIL users. The list is based on material provided by ACIMAIL and participating libraries in June 1985.
