Helen Price — a profile

he LAA paper conservator, Helen Price, ained her practical experience at the Nation-Museum of Australia, Australian War Iemorial and Power House Museum. Before ompleting the Canberra CAE course on conervation of cultural materials, Helen acaired management and communication kills in advertising, tourism, country newsaper work and served as an alderman.

During her training Helen specialised in ountry museum collections, accompanying ne Museums Association Regional Conservaor on several field trips and country museum eminar/workshops, giving demonstrations, lks and practical sessions.

Now Helen is attending evening classes in pokbinding to add to her skills in calligrany and illuminating. She looks forward to siting many public libraries and historical ocieties over the coming months to advise nd give practical assistance in the handling. are, storage and conservation of local stud-s collections. InCite readers will be kept up date with the activities planned for 1987.

father, son and . . .

hree 'generations' of University of Sydney ibrarians were photographed in the Fisher ibrary recently.

Andrew D Osborn (centre) was the sixth Librarian of the University (1959-62). An Ausralian who returned to his native land after wenty years at the Harvard University Li-Osborn virtually single-handedly rought about a revolution in library proision for Australian universities. He almost oubled the library's bookstock, collecting in our years as many volumes as had been acuired in the previous century. Osborn also layed a leading part in the design of the isher building, a standard-setting building which has been often imitated and seldom urpassed for its combination of functional fficiency and aesthetic appeal.

Harrison Bryan (right) succeeded Osborn s seventh Librarian of the University (1963-0). Bryan came to Sydney after 13 years as ibrarian of the University of Queensland. Ie inherited the new Fisher building and also University administration which found itelf now committed to quality library service nd a high level of collection development. During Bryan's 17 years at Sydney the collecion grew almost four-fold, automation was ntroduced in several pioneering stages, and ydney assumed a position of leadership mong the country's academic libraries

The eighth and present University Libraran, Neil Radford (left), succeeded Bryan in 980 after seven years as Associate Librarian. Ie has two hard acts to follow.

Conservation on the Move

With the appointment of a paper conservator/consultant on 15 September, the NSW Branch of the Library Association of Australia begins its commitment to the NSW Bicentennial Council funded project Conservation on the Move. The project which will continue until the end of 1988 embraces a statewide program to conserve cultural ma-

Other associations involved in the project are: Regional Galleries Association of NSW; Australian Society of Archivists (ASA), Sydney Branch; Museums Association of Australia (MAA), NSW Branch; Institute for the Conservation of Cultural Materials (ICCM).

A highlight of the project will be the mobile conservation laboratory which will follow a schedule of monthly visits to regional centres and some metropolitan centres. The unit is under the special control and care of the Regional Galleries Association but will be a focus for the work of the participating Associ-

The LAA project conservator is Helen Price, graduate in Conservation from the School of Applied Science, Canberra CAE. Helen is based at the School of Librarianship Conservation Laboratory at the University of NSW, (02) 697 3447. Her main concerns will be the conservation needs of local studies collections of public libraries and local historical societies. Helen will be involved with the workshops the ICCM is conducting in Sydney, be available for consultations and demonstrations, and will travel to country

To ensure effective use is made of such professional conservation services and Bicentennial funds, the LAA looks forward to liaising with local government authorities, and the officers of the Royal Australian Historical Society and the Public Libraries Division, State Library of NSW.

The LAA Conservation Project is administered on behalf of the NSW Branch by Faye Lawrence, Chief Librarian, Woollahra Municipal Library, (02) 327 7818 and Patricia Ward (Secretary, Action Committee on Local Government Records), (02) 337 6214.

A whole new world of information — United States and International Patents

No one has more patent documentation on file than Research Publications. No one. And that's important to know in this quickly changing world. Whether you read historical, recently published, or newly issued patent documents, we provide it all. With access to documentation from patent issuing agencies around the world, we can get you exactly the information you need, whenever you need it. The ever-expanding universe of patents is easily accessible in your choice of archival-quality microfilm or in paper form. US Patents are also available on

To keep current on the latest technological breakthroughs, The Official Gazette of the United States Patent and Trademark Office, an updated weekly publication of abstracts by the United States Patent and Trademark Office is available both on microfilm and microfiche.

Put a world of knowledge at your fingertips.

For more information on our complete line of patent products, contact:

RESEARCH PUBLICATIONS

P.O. Box 45 Reading RG1 8HF, England Telephone: 0734 583247 Telex: 848336 NADL G

Fax: 734-591325

RAPID PATENT SERVICE

P.O. Box 2527 Eads Station Arlington, VA22202, USA Telephone: 703 920-5050 Telex: 892362 Fax: 1-703-685-3987