

New award recognises talented self-publishers

Pat Woolley believes that 'vanity publishing' need not be in vain

WILD & WOOLLEY/
Fast Books and Xerox Australia have recently announced the inaugural $10 000 Xerox Fast Books Awards for self-publishers.

There is a $5000 prize, with second and third runners up receiving $2500 each, open to all self-published writers whose books are printed in Australia within the 1992 calendar year. Authors from across Australia are invited to submit one copy of their own, self-published or privately-financed book produced during 1992, in any subject area whatsoever, to Wild and Woolley/

Fast Books, 16 Darghan St, Glebe NSW 2037 before 31 January, 1993. Books will be judged by an independent panel and the winners will be announced on 22 February, 1993.

The Xerox Fast Books Awards will celebrate good writing and reward Australian authors for their initiative and their talent.
For too many years, book publishers have criticised writers for their 'vanity publishing', when really they were worried about the competition. Publishers take months to read and reject worthwhile manuscripts but resent it when a bestselling book gets away from them.

Australia has many famous examples of privately-financed books including Man-Shy by Frank Dalby Davison, Margaret Preston: Recent Paintings, The Birds of Australia by John Gould, Short Stories in Prose and Verse by Henry Lawson, and Power Without Glory by Frank Hardy.

Further information from Pat Woolley on (02) 692 0166. ■

Christmas reading...

Can you cook a galah?

Or can you make a Johnny Cake?

LOOKING FOR A Christmas present? Seventy-six of the 'best' poems about Sydney, from 1840 to 1991, have been beautifully presented in two colours, set in Baskerville and Gill Sans fonts on a specially-made 120 gsm permanent all-cotton paper in a delicate shade of cream

Sydney's Poems has been edited by Robert Gray and Vivian Smith as a celebration of Sydney's 150th Anniversary (There are also acknowledgments to the publisher, the in-house editor, the designer, the typesetter, the inks, the paper maker and the printer—it's that kind of book.) It is available from the publisher, Primavera Press at PO Box 575, Leichhardt Sydney 2040 for a paltry $9.95. How do they do it at the price, when we often have to pay so much more for sometimes rubbishy productions?

A great Christmas read would be When Mabel Laid the Table: the Folklore of Eating and Drinking in Australia by Warren Fahey. Can you make Johnny Cake? Cook a galah? Mix a Catherine Hayes or a Madame Bishop? This book will tell you how, and much more beside. It is a social history of Australia's unique tradition of wining and dining, from early colonial days through the lean times of the 1890s and 1930s, from the swaggies to cafe society. Get it from the Merchandising Officer, State Library of NSW Press, Macquarie Street, Sydney NSW 2000, for $24.95 paperback, $34.95 hardbound. ■

Need an indexer?

INDEXERS Available
1992-93. This new directory is published by the Australian

Society of Indexers, GPO Box 1251L, Melbourne 3001. It is an alphabetical listing of about eighty members of the society, with brief statements of their subject specialities, special skills, computer skills and publications indexed. The specialities and skills are separately indexed at the back of this 40-page book.
Available from the Society, price $10. ■

Catalogue of PNG theses

THIS CATALOGUE of theses in the Michael Somare Library of the University of PNG, the Library's Occasional Publication No 15, has been compiled by the Librarian Joe W Naguwean. It includes 260 theses accepted for higher degrees between 1970 and 1990, together with a number of Honours Degree theses. The bibliographical details are listed in alphabetical order and there is a comprehensive subject index (from Agarabi people to Zygora fractures).

The Catalogue is available from the Library, but there is a warning that theses can only be borrowed on ILL with the consent of the author. ■

Self-portraits of the artists

THE NLA HAS JUST published a totally fascinating compilation of twenty-six Australian artists talking about themselves and their work, taken from the Library's Oral History collection. Most of the interviews in Artists' Portraits, selected and introduced by Geoffrey Dutton, were conducted by Hazel de Berg, a tiny part of her celebrated series that spanned over 27 years. The earliest interview was in 1961; others bring us into the eighties.

None of the artists, writes Dutton, 'are living except in their work', but in these pages they speak to us so directly that it is difficult to accept their passing. Their work covers the first three quarters of this century, and Dutton's liminary essay is a fine brief survey of that period in the development of Australian art. From the NLA, price $23.95. ■