Training partnership with CAVAL

ALIA is pleased to announce a new partnership with CAVAL Training which will give ALIA members access to CAVAL training courses for a discounted fee.

CAVAL offers a generous 15 per cent 'early bird' discount to anyone registering more than four weeks before a course. ALIA members registering after this will still receive a 5 per cent discount on the normal fee. To receive the discount, members need to provide a password to CAVAL when registering. Go to <http://alia.org.au/members-only/education/pd/caval.html> to access the current password. Please note: the password is changed regularly, so check before you register for each CAVAL course.

CAVAL Training offers a diverse range of courses, workshops and seminars for information professionals. New programs for 2005 include Mentoring, Change Ability, Career Development, Exceptional Customer Service, Internal Consulting Skills, Leading Others through Change and Open Access and Scholarly Communication Futures.

In addition to new programs in 2005, CAVAL Training has revised and upgraded many courses offered in previous years. Updated courses include Planning and Conducting an Information Audit, Planning a New Business Model for Future Libraries (formerly Scenario Planning) and Introduction to Metadata, as well as a complete range of cataloguing and classification courses.

For further details about any of CAVAL's training courses or to receive a printed copy of the 2005 CAVAL Training Directory, contact CAVAL Training at training@caval.edu.au. Electronic copies of the CAVAL Training Directory are available in PDF format from the CAVAL website at <http://www.caval.edu.au>. To discuss training solutions in your organisation or local area, e-mail Richard Sayers at richard@caval.edu.au.

ALIA and CAVAL are now working together to devise ways of taking training courses to ALIA members in regional and remote locations. ■
