

SwetsWise Subscriptions Library Edition

Swets has announced that following a successful six-week Beta testing period SwetsWise Subscriptions Library Edition is now available for all customers. It replaces the long-running and highly successful DataswetsConnect service. Swets will migrate existing DataswetsConnect customers to the new service in the coming months. New customers can order SwetsWise Subscriptions Library Edition immediately.

Enhanced NoveList coming from EBSCO in 2008

NoveList Plus – an enhanced version of the original 1994 database that will also include nonfiction titles – is due for release in the USA in early 2008. The nonfiction readers' advisory resource will contain browsing lists and lists of award winners as well as author read-alikes, reviews and book discussion guides for popular titles. NoveList Plus will be an upgrade to NoveList, and will contain the entire NoveList service. In addition, NoveList Plus will have a new interface and many user-requested features. More information about this product will be available in June 2007 at the American Library Association meeting in Washington, DC. Please contact Rob DePaolo at rdepaulo@epnet.com or Kathleen McEvoy at kmcevoy@ebSCOhost.com if you require any additional information.

Inclusive e-learning case studies

Thirteen new case studies are giving training providers ideas on how to use e-learning in their programs for learners with disabilities and disengaged youth. Developed by the national trainingsystem's e-learning strategy, the Australian Flexible

Learning Framework, the case studies can be found at: <http://flexiblelearning.net.au/inclusive>.

Edna on tour

The Education Network Australia (edna) tour is designed to spread the word about online resources available <<http://www.edna.edu.au/>> through the edna website and to provide valuable training in the use of online services and collaborative tools. The workshops will take the form of a one-day 'mini conference' including guest speakers, hands-on sessions, discussions and presentations. For more information regarding venues and registration visit <http://www.edna.edu.au/workshops>.

EBSCOhost adds to Academic Search

Academic Search Complete (ASC) from EBSCO Publishing, available in April 2007, will be the latest addition to the Academic Search product line. Initially, ASC will provide a collection of 5 318 full-text journals, and this figure is expected to grow to more than 6 000 within the next twelve to eighteen months. Complete coverage information and additional detail regarding Academic Search Complete can be found at <http://www.ebscohost.com/academic>.

BMJ Journals announce free availability of back archives

BMJ Journals, a division of the BMJ Group, today announced that the back archive of the Journal of Clinical Pathology (JCP), including its Molecular Pathology edition, is now freely available on-line right back to Volume 1, Issue 1 which was published over 60 years ago. The JCP archive is the first digital archive to be made available from BMJ Journals and all the archives of the Group's 23 clinical medicine journals will be accessible without charge by the end of this year.

The move to digital records of medical journals will be of particular interest to libraries where space for paper journals is under pressure. The JCP is now preserved historically on-line and librarians and researchers have instant access to this information.
