Associate Membership update

In the past graduates who have undertaken a post-graduate LIS qualification without holding a Bachelor Degree have not been automatically eligible for Associate membership and were required to undertake a widened eligibility assessment. In a recent Board decision it was determined that ALIA should accept Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) assessments of students to determine equivalence to an undergraduate degree for entry into post – graduate LIS qualifications.

There has been a broadening of perspectives that higher education should be made more accessible to all Australians and that learning occurs through a variety of experiences, formally and informally. The Australian Qualifications Framework (AQF) Qualifications Pathways Policy supports this philosophy and entry into post graduate courses via RPL is increasing on a national basis. The newly established Tertiary Education Quality Standards Agency (TEQSA) will register and evaluate universities against the new Higher Education Standards Framework. The threshold Qualifications Standards are aligned with the AQF.

In making this change ALIA recognises the specifications of the AQF and the regulatory responsibility of TEQSA to ensure quality outcomes for the higher education sector.

Interested in making a contribution to LIS education?

ALIA members are encouraged to consider participating in a course advisory committee (each accredited course has one. Contact details provided on their listing at www.alia.org.au/education/qualifications).

Interested in contributing as an educator, employer or senior practitioner on an ALIA accreditation panel? Please contact education@alia.org.au for more information.
