

SO MUCH #LIBRARYLOVE

Library Lovers' Day 2014 was a smashing success, with library and information services around the country feeling the love. We were thrilled to see so many Facebook messages, tweets, instagrams and emails about events around the country.

So how did you celebrate? Students at Canberra Girls' Grammar School left secret red hearts in books for the next reader to find. Wyong Shire libraries celebrated by having their patron write out why they love their library. Casuarina Library in Darwin celebrated by creating 'Borrow a Dinner Date' packages which included DVDs and cookbooks with shared themes. One of their favourite pairings was Kath and Kimderella and the Women's Weekly Cheap and Cheerful Cookbook. The clever staff at Rockhampton Hospital Library used their event to tempt workers from across the hospital to come into their library.

We hope you had a wonderful Library Lovers' Day and we are really looking forward to next year. To see the full wrap up for Library Lovers' Day, head over to www.alia.org.au/library-lovers-day-2014-wrap.

IMAGES:

Top: Students at Tenison Woods College in Mount Gambier, SA picked three characters from books they would like to have afternoon tea with.

Middle: The staff at the National Gallery of Australia showed off their library love with heart books in a heart shape.

Bottom: The Sunshine Coast Council Libraries celebrated with book blind dates.