The first part of the paper discusses the general theory of the firm, and the second part discusses the empirical evidence. The third part discusses the implications of the theory for public policy.

The general theory of the firm is based on the idea that the firm is a collection of individuals who are organized in a way that allows them to coordinate their activities and to make decisions about the allocation of resources. The firm is a social institution that is created by individuals and that has a life of its own. The firm is a collection of
